The governing body of Newton Solney Church of England (VA) Infant School is representative of both our school families and our wider community. It is represented by governors of a wide range of ages, gender, race, religion and physical ability. As such, we are confident we reflect our families and our community. We also consider diversity to mean the diverse skills and knowledge that our governors possess as well as the diversity of their protected characteristics. We are fortunate to have a governing body which consists of a variety of knowledge, skills and experiences including backgrounds in education, business and finance. The majority of our governors are appointed by the Diocese and, as such, represent the Church of England nature of our school. Together they make sound, knowledge-based decisions for the efficient running of our school and the children's education.
